THE COMMONWEALTH.

FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY.

A Loyal Newspaper, Devoted to Maintaining the Government in Putting Down the Insurrection.

A lengthy prospectus is unnecessary. Suffice it, that the Commonwealth is an uncompromising Union paper, and no effort will be spared to make it worthy the confidence and patronage of every loyal person.

That its influence may be exerted and felt for good, the Commonwealth must look for support to the People, and to the People alone. It has no official patronage to depend upon. Let the People, to whom it appeals, give it a generous and hearty encouragement—a patronage that will cause it to be found in every loyal household—an ardent advocate of the best interests of Kentucky.

Subscriptions are respectfully requested. Persons obtaining ten subscribers, and sending the money, will be entitled to one copy gratis.

Terms—Tri-Weekly, per year, $4.00. Weekly, per year, 2.00.

The terms are low, and considering the great increase in price of paper, &c., requires that the subscription should be a large one. With arrears every where except themselves!

Address, A. G. HODGES, Frankfort, Kentucky.

The Headquarters of the Military District of Kentucky will be at Louisville on and after February 22, and all official communications for those headquarters must be sent to that city.

Cave Presentation.
By the proceedings of the Senate, on Saturday last, the reader will see that Lieut. Gen. James B. McNeill presented with a very handsome sword, to the members of the Senate, a sword which was presented to him by the late Mr. Simon Robinson.

A silver mounted pistol was lost on the Capital square yesterday. It had the name of "Duke" inscribed on the butt. The finder will be rewarded by leaving it with the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate.

It is stated that up to the 5th inst. more persons had registered their names and taken the oath of allegiance in the two parishes of Jefferson and Orleans, Louisiana, than the one tenth of the aggregate vote of the State in 1850, required by the President's Proclamation. It is expected that twice this number will be thus qualified to vote in the parts of the State within our lines alone.

The London correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette mentions that a discovery has been made in France, which will probably revolutionize the paper business. Excellent paper is manufactured from the wood of the oak, walnut, pine, chestnut, and various vegetables, without any addition of rags. A reduction in price of from fifty to eighty per cent, is predicted. Samples were exhibited, and attracted general attention.

A telegram states that in the discussion in Congress, on the 10th instant, on the gold bill, Mr. Garfield said that, by the first of July next, at the rate gold was being paid in, there would be in the United States Treasury $74,000,000, whilst the pledge of the Government for gold coin would be but $23,000,000.

Army Items.

A telegram, dated at Chattanooga, February 19, states that Adj. Gen. Thomas had just arrived there from Knoxville. He reports Longstreet in full retreat beyond French Broad, to avoid the engagements that the movements of our troops would have brought on. Nashville and Knoxville are connected by railroad, except some seven hundred yards at London, the work upon which is being pushed forward with all expedition.

Joe Johnston has his pockets advanced to Ringgold, while his main force is concentrated at Dalton. He is too fearful of an attack from Gen. G. H. Thomas to send reinforcements to Polk or Longstreet.

The Mobile News is severe upon his Reverence Bishop General Polk, for permitting Gen. Sherman to put general him, pass beyond Meridian, and get between the Bishop's forces and Montgomery. The rebels report Selma, Alabama, as the point Gen. Sherman is aiming at, where the largest military facilities, &c., belonging to the rebels, are situated.

Gen. Gillmore reports to Gen. Halleck, that on the 5th instant he sent a force up the St. Johns river to Jacksonville, Florida, and landed on the 8th, and seven miles from Jacksonville attacked a rebel camp, captured one hundred prisoners, eight pieces of artillery, large amount of ammunition, and other property, without the loss of a man. The rebels sunk a steamer and burned two hundred and seventy bales of cotton, on the approach of the Federal forces.

Gen. Meade reports that a scouting party, sent out by Gen. Pleasanton, Chief of Cavalry, captured twenty-eight of Mosby's men at Belmont, on the 15th instant.

New York papers have a sensational rumor, that the blockade and siege of Charleston is to be discontinued, at least for the present. We presume the report started from the fact that, for a little recreation, Gen. Gillmore went up to Jacksonville, Florida, and captured some cannon, and other valuable property.

(For the Commonwealth.)

The Davenport Boys.

The patrons of these wandering swindlers in our goodly city may feel an interest in their doings, and in learning the estimation in which they are held in some other places where the people possess a decided indisposition to being bamboozled out of their dollars and dimes. Under the heading of—"A carnival of folly—spiritualism and blasphemy—The Davenport Boys—humbuggery, imposture, delusions, skepticism, legend, fiction, fable, and devilry—the Philadelphia Sunday Dispatch gives their record a ventilation, after the following fashion:

During the week a game that was scarcely "worth the candle" has occupied more or less of the attention of the town. Two young men, who styled themselves the "Davenport Boys," and an individual named Fay, who hailed from Chicago, have been giving exhibitions in Spiritualism at the Assembly Building. The persons named, all come from "Down East;" notwithstanding the fact that one of the trio pretends to belong to the West, they really are members of that class of Yankee adventures who are giving New England an undeserved bad name abroad, for excessive sharpness with very little honesty.

The "Boys" belong to that interesting class of adolescents who wear moustaches, drink whiskey freely, and mix among people of both sexes with an air not usually considered fit associates for Sunday school children. They are a pair of impudent, ignorant impostors; but in this respect they sink into insignificance in comparison with their business agent and lecturer, G. S. Lacy, who is without exception the most illiterate ass that we have ever heard attempt to address an audience of grown men and women.

The "Boys" have been in the spiritual line for several years, and the story goes that some time since, when Spiritualism was about "played out" with them Down East, they found it more practicable to recant from the principles of Andrew Jackson Davis, and they accordingly drew large paying audiences in the city of Boston, to whom they pretended to disclose the modus operandi of their swindle. This course has increased the Bostonians greatly in view of the fact that the "Boys" afterwards relapsed into Spiritualism, and the Davenport youths now find it expedient to give the modern Athens a wide berth.

After giving an account of the way in which their legendism was practiced, the paper goes on to say:

Some time since the "Boys" were rash enough, while in Wisconsin, to admit a third party into their clothes press during the time they were having their interview with the spirits in the dark. What came of this imprudence is related in the Boone County Advertiser, a paper published in Boone county, Wisconsin. The editor says:

"The following correspondence speaks for itself, it being a reply to a question asked of Mr. Whitmore by Dr. J. Phillips, of this place, in regard to the performances of the 'Davenport Boys':"

"Dr. WHITMORE, Sir:—I should have complied with your request a long time ago, but have been very busy and could not find time. I make the following statement:

"The 'Davenport Boys' were in this city the last of June, 1863, and gave some two or three representations at 'Simmons Hall' of what they called 'spiritual manifestations.' I attended one of the meetings and was appointed with Harvey Durkee and Prof. Stone as committee to investigate their performance; the mode of operating, I presume, is well known. Before the meeting Mr. Durkee had applied to his half a mixture of oil and lampblack, so that a person applying their hand to his head would easily show the evidence of contact.

"After the 'Boys' had been securely tied in their cage, Mr. Durkee took his seat between them, and the door was closed. Soon the sounds commenced, the instruments began to play, and, as Mr. Durkee states, a hand was felt moving over various portions of his body, taking his watch out of his pocket, &c., and finally rested on the top of his head.

"He then asked the spirits to part his hair as he would when a boy, and they made the attempt: the door was at last opened, and upon taking a light and examining the heads of the 'Boys,' they were found to be tied as at first, but the hand of one of them was smeared with oil and lampblack, and he had a mixture of oil and lampblack on his head. The hearer's hands I saw, and can positively testify to the same.

"After the imposture was exposed the audience left the hall, and the 'Boys' got out of town as soon as possible.

"Respectfully yours,"

"A. H. THOMPSON."

The history of their doings in Philadelphia, as given by the Dispatch, will repay the "faithful" for a perusal. It says:

Last night was to be the last of the "Spirits" in Philadelphia, and a gay party of youths went to see the fun. The manager of the spirits seemed to have anticipated this, and the dead head tickets were scattered liberally among the Spiritualists of the town. As a consequence the "faithful"—the men wearing shawls and long hair, and the women dressed in sack-coats and wearing green spectacles—were scattered around among the unfaithful and the mockers. It was a queerly assorted audience.

The first business in order was a speech by Mr. Lacy, the business agent of the spirits, who invoked order and managed to get up a heavier pressure of bad grammar to the square inch than any man ever listened to. He not only invoked order, but he implored it—nay, he admonished it—in fact he commanded it, and met no response from the audience, approving grunts from the spiritual crowd, and a "dry up and go on with the show" from the heretics. Mr. Lacy was less blasphemous than usual, and in this respect his speech was an improvement upon his former oratorical efforts.

Mr. John C. Keller and Mr. Ryan were named a committee to perform the tying and inspect the wardrobe. This done, Mr. Keller produced a piece of wire and proposed to secure the principal knob with this description of fastening. The "Boys" objected: Lacy backed them up, and managed to be as impudent as possible. The audience took sides according to their prejudices, and there was a high old time generally. The debate became general, and while Lacy and Keller were having a wordy combat upon the platform, side squabbles were going on through the audience.

Those who thought proper to invest an additional dollar were admitted to the mystic series of the "inner circle," and to the lover of fun and devilry the investment was a paying one. There was the same mingling of un congenial elements, and they came in violent collision. At one end of the room was a select party of the B'hoys who were seeking knowledge under difficulties, and they gave the "Boys" and the medium Fay much trouble. The two mediums who were to invoke the presence of the "Spirits" were tied in their chairs, the lights were extinguished, and the "Spirits" were soon heard at work at the cords of the mediums.

Suddenly a light was seen to dash across the room, and a dark lantern was made manifest. It applied the uniting of the "Boys" for, like the ghost of old Mr. Hamlet, it couldn't stand light. The dark lantern kicked up a brisk breeze, and the perpetrator of the offense was threatened with vengeance dire, provided he could be found out. But he was not found out, and so the show went on, the masculine women and feminine men having offered the opinion that the offenders were no gentlemen, and the offender suggesting that their spiritual advisers in shawls and spectacles should "dry up."

We cannot pretend to describe all the comical and exciting scenes which were enacted in this dark room. A gent in a light coat was bound to catch the spirits, and he thought he had them several times; but the ghosts were like the Frenchman's flea, and when he put his hands on them they were not there. The police finally interfered and were going to put light cost out, but his friends were too many for the spiritual party, and so he was not put out. This episode like to have brought about a general knock down, and there was much pulling and hauling done, but comparative peace was restored and the spirits propelled. The instruments were played upon and slung around the room, the mediums were tied and untied, and light coat and his friends protested that they distinctly caught the mediums untying themselves, and on one occasion when a match was suddenly struck a certain innocent looking individual was caught in the open space opposite the table, with a guitar in his hands, which he threw away, upon being detected.

The exhibition last night was a fit finale for a disgraceful series of "manifestations," in which it was hard to tell whether the most prominent feature was blasphemy, humbuggery, insolence or ignorance.

There was no exorcism directed at Leavenworth, Kansas, on the 19th instant. Loss estimated at $150,000 to $200,000.

The Kingdoms of Prussia and Austria have invaded Denmark, with large armies, and several engagements have occurred, so far to the advantage of the Danes.

A steamer in Government service was burned at Columbus, Ky., on the 19th. It was heavily laden with Government property. No doubt it was the work of a rebel incendiary.

The steamer Cumberland, captured recently while attempting to run into Mobile, is a splendid prize. She is said to have been designed to be used as a privateer after this, her first voyage. Her cargo cost $350,000 in England, consisting of arms, ammunition, clothing, &c. Not the least pleasant item of the capture is the fact that splendid sets of furniture for Jeff. Davis and his Naval Secretary, Mallory, presents from English sympathizers, were found on board.

Some officious people having started rumors of the disloyalty of Bishop Somle, it is authoritatively stated, that the Bishop has remained quietly at his home near Nashville, true to his allegiance to the old flag, ever since the rebellion was inaugurated; and that so much confidence have the Federal authorities in his patriotism, that they have never molested him, or required him to take the oath.

Mr. Conness, one of the Senators in Congress from California, stated in the Senate, a day or two ago, that there was an imperative necessity to send immediately to the Pacific coast a fleet of war steamers; as the authorities had positive information that the rebel steamers have left Asia for that coast, and it is feared that San Francisco will be menaced before the navy can afford the required protection.

Some excitement has been created, in certain political circles, by the action of the Kansas Legislature, in electing Gov. Carney to the United States Senate, as the successor of the notorious Jim Lane, and thus leaving Jim "out in the cold." As Lane's term does not expire until March 4, 1865, and a new Legislature meets in Kansas before that period, movements are already on foot to make the legality of Carney's election a test in the next election for members of the Legislature.

COMPOUND

GEDRON BITTERS.

The Latest and Most Important Discovery of the 19th Century.

NO MAN'S name is more intimately connected with the history of the Materia Medica of the United States, or more favorably known, as a pioneer in Medical discovery, than that of Dr. JOHN BULL, of Louisville, Ky. His inimitable preparation of Sarsaparilla, has long stood at the head of the various compounds of that valuable drug. His Compound Syrup, or WORM CURER, has become a household word throughout the West and South; and his Worm Lozenges, in less than a year after their introduction, attained a reputation as wide spread as the continent of North America. But the crowning glory of his life remains in his latest discovery, or rather combination, for he does not claim to have been the discoverer of CEDRON, which is the basis of the bitters now offered to the public that he belongs to the native inhabitants of Central America, to whom its virtues have been known for more than two hundred years. Armed with the Indian bird's-bane to the most deadly malaria, and haudles, without fear, the most venomous serpent. It is a belief with them that while there is breath left in the body, the Cedron is potent to cure, no matter what the disease may be.

While Dr. Bull is not prepared to endorse this extravagant pretension, he is, nevertheless, satisfied from a thorough examination of the evidence relating to its virtues, that as a remedy and preventive for all diseases arising from exposure, or to changes of weather and climate, or to the miasmatic influences, it stands without a rival, and is the best and most reliable of all the long enjoyed in Central America and the West Indies.

DYSPEPSIA,

and its attendant train of symptoms, it acts more like a charm than a medicine. There is nothing in the whole range of Materia Medica, that can for a moment bear a comparison with it in this disease.

Full account of this wonderful plant may be found in the 1st edition of the U. S. Dispensatory, pages 1397 and 1398. A series of experiments in which Dr. Bull has been for years engaged, has just been brought to a successful termination, and he is now enabled to offer to the public a combination of Cedron with other approved tonics, the whole prepared in the best quality of copper distilled Bourbon whiskey, which he is confident has no equal in the world. He might furnish a volume of certificates, but the public have long since learned to estimate such things at their true value. The safest plan is, for every one to test for himself the value of a new medicine. Give the one trial, and you will never use any others. It is not necessary to publish a long list of diseases for which the Cedron Bitters are a specific.

In all diseases of the STOMACH, BOWELS,

LIVER, OR KIDNEYS;

In all affections of the BRAIN, DEPENDING

UPON DERANGEMENT OF THE STOMACH

OR BOWELS;

In GOUT, RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA;

And in FEVER AND AGUE;

It is destined to supersede all other remedies. It not only cures these diseases, but it PREVENTS them.

A wine glass full of the Bitters taken an hour before each meal, will obviate the ill effects of the most unhealthy climate, and screen the person taking it against disease under the most trying exposure.

Sold by Druggists and Grocers generally.

HEAD-QUARTERS KENTUCKY VOLUNTEERS, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, Frankfort, Feb. 10, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS,

No. 2.

For the information of all concerned.

It is hereby announced, according to instructions received from the War Department, that,

To any non-commissioned officer, private, or citizen who will present to any Provost Marshal, or authorized recruiting officer, an accepted recruit, who can be shown to have served at least nine months and has been discharged, the sum of $25 will be paid.

And for an accepted recruit, without such qualification, the sum of $15 will be paid. Should the recruit be presented to a recruiting officer (not a Provost Marshal) the certificate of the U. S. Mustering officer will be required, that he has been duly mustered into the service of the United States before the premium can be paid.

By order of the Governor:

JOHN BOYLE,

Adjutant General of Ky.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 16, 1863.

On the 22d of July last I submitted, through an agent of mine, to the Medical Director of the Department of the Cumberland a sample of my Cedron Bitters for his inspection, and requested if, after analysis, he found it meritorious, to sanction and approve its use among our soldiers.

The following is the Medical Director's reply, and also Gen. Rosecrans' permission to ship 300 dozen at once to have it sold to soldiers.

"I am satisfied that Cedron Bitters will do no harm to any one, if taken properly and in moderation. I see no objection to Dr. Bull's being permitted to dispose of it to soldiers."
